A FAMOUS COLONIAL MITCHELL.

The first American Mitchell of note was the Rev. Jonathan Mitchell, minister of Cambridge, Mass., the son of Jonathan Mitchell, who was born in England in 1624. He was brought to this country in 1635 by his parents, who sought a refuge from ecclesiastical tyranny in the wilderness. His father first settled at Concord, Mass., afterwards he lived at Saybrook, Wethersfield, and Stamford, Conn., and died in 1645. Mr. Mitchell was graduated at Harvard college in 1647, having made great acquisitions in knowledge. Under the ministry of Mr. Shepard his mind was impressed by the truths of religion. While at college he kept a diary in Latin.

When he began to preach, he was invited to settle at Hartford, Conn., but he was ordained at Cambridge, Mass., as the successor of Mr. Shepard, August 21, 1650. Soon after his settlement, President Dunster embraced the principles of antipedbaptism. This was a peculiar trial to him; but, though he felt it to be his duty to combat the principles of his former tutor, he did it with such meekness of wisdom, as not to lose his friendship, though the controversy occasioned his removal from the college. In 1662 he was a member of the synod, which met in Boston to discuss and settle a question concerning church membership and church discipline, and the result was chiefly written by him. The determination of the question relating to the baptism of the children of those who did not approach the Lord's table, and the support thus given to what is called the half-way covenant, was more owing to him than to any other man. Considering baptized persons as members of the church and liable to its discipline, he thought, that their children should be admitted to baptism.

He died July 9, 1668, aged 42. His wife was Margaret, daughter of Mr. Shepard, his predecessor. His children were John; Nathaniel; Samuel, a graduate of 1681; and Jonathan, a graduate of 1687. Mr. Mitchell was eminent for piety, wisdom, humility, and love. His vigorous powers of mind were diligently cultivated; his memory was very retentive; and he had acquired much learning. He wrote his sermons with care and yet preached without notes, speaking with great majesty, and attaining towards the close of his discourses a fervency, which was most energetic and impressive. His delivery awas inimitable. He was frequently called to ecclesiastical councils, and, possessing singular acuteness, prudence, and moderation, he was well qualified to heal differences.

Attached to the institutions of the founders of New England, he frequently said, that if it should become a general opinion, that all persons, orthodox in judgment as to matters of faith, and not scandalous in life, should be admitted to partake of the Lord's supper without any examination concerning the work of saving grace in their hearts, it would be a real apostacy from former principles, and a degeneracy from the reformation already attained. He was faithful and zealous in the discharge of the duties of the sacred office. Beside his stated labors on the sabbath, he preached a monthly lecture upon man's misery by sin, salvation by Christ, and holy obedience, which was much attended by persons from the neighboring towns.

He published a letter of counsel to his brother, 1664; an election sermon, entitled, Nehemiah upon the wall in troublesome times, 1667; a letter concerning the subject of baptism, 1675; a discourse of the glory to which God hath called believers by Jesus Christ, printed in London, and reprinted in Boston, in 1721.

THE GIRLS OF BETHLEHEM.

The Moravian Seminary for Young Ladies, at Bethlehem, Penn., is one of the oldest female institutions of learning in this country. Since 1786, thousands of young ladies have attended the Bethlehem school. In the early days few of the pupils were Moravians, but were members of aristocratic and wealthy families, and for many years the seminary was quite the vogue. The following list of pupils, recently found, will prove of great genealogical interest:

DR. ROBERT MITCHELL

(Contributed)

Doctor Robert Mitchell was born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, in 1778. He studied medicine there, and in 1808 married Catherine McCulloch. For a wedding trip the young couple traveled to Zanesville, Ohio, on horseback. When they settled in that place there were but twelve shingle roofed houses. The Indians were still there, but friendly, and would come to the doctor's house to see the white papooses. Dr. Mitchell served in the war of 1812, and was afterward a general in the Ohio militia. In 1833 he was elected to Congress, but in 1835 was defeated for re-election by his Whig opponent. Dr. Mitchell died the 13th of November, 1848.

Amasa Mitchell, died in Scott Co., Ind., 12 Feb., 1851, aged 90 years. He was a musician in the Revolution, under Benedict Arnold. He served afterwards on the ship Vulture. He witnessed the execution of Major Andre, and was present at the surrender of Cornwallis.

THE GOVERNOR OF GEORGIA

David Bradie Mitchell, ninth governor of Georgia (1809-11 and 1815-17), was born in Scotland 22 October, 1766. He went to Savannah, Ga., in 1783, at seventeen years of age, to take possession of property willed to him by his uncle, Dr. David Bradie, who had been taken prisoner by the British at the capture of Savannah, and died in the confinement of the prison ship. Young Mitchell read law under Gov. Wm. Stevens, and as clerk of the committee to revise the criminal code, learned that branch of his profession well. He was elected solicitor-general in 1795; representative to the legislature in 1796, voting against the "Yazoo fraud"; major-general of militia in 1804, and governor of Georgia in 1809 and 1815, resigning in 1817, to accept an appointment from the president of the United States as agent to the Creek Indians. In 1818, he concluded a treaty with the Indians at the Creek agency. Gov. Mitchell was a conscientious, cultured and conservative man, possessed of great energy and public spirit, and animated by the purest patriotism. He discussed practically and ably in his messages every important subject, including roads, rivers, the public debt and education. The legislature erected a slab to his memory, and a later assembly named a county after him. He died at Milledgeville, Ga., 22 April, 1837.

"FATHER MITCHEL" OF VIRGINIA

(Contributed)

Reverend James Mitchel (the orthography preferred by him) was a son of the late Robert Mitchel (born in the north of Ireland) and Mary Enos his wife (the latter of Edinburg, Scotland, and of Welsh descent). Robert Mitchell and family emigrated to America at an early period. James Mitchel, his son, was born at Pequa, Pennsylvania, 29 January, 1747. The family removed to and settled in Bedford Co., Virginia, at an early date. James Mitchell was licensed a Presbyterian minister in October, 1781. He married Frances, daughter of Reverend David and Mary Blair Rice. He was known in South-west Virginia, as an humble, able, successful preacher from the day he was licensed to the day of his death which occurred 27 February, 1841. He was aged ninety-four years and one month. He left many worthy descendants, was tenderly loved and venerated and often addressed and spoken of as "Father Mitchel." R. D. B.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME

(Contributed)

The family name of Mitchell, in some instances may have originated from the Anglo Saxon—mycel—meaning great or mickle, that is much, but in most cases it is supposed to be a Norman name from the Hebrew Michael. We find the name Michael belonging to a considerable number of persons from the time of Moses to that of Ezra. Michael was the father of one of the men sent by Moses to search the land of Canaan. On account of the meaning of the name, who is like God, it was undoubtedly selected to represent the mighty and mysterious Being, who is called Michael in various parts of the world of God. "One of the chief princes, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people, the warrior prince of the heavenly host."

In confirmation of the derivation of the name Mitchell from Michael, it may be noted that the Mitchells of Midlothian, Scotland, sometimes spelled the name Mitchael and in England Michal, the latter being identical with the feminine form of the name Michael, which was bestowed upon the younger daughter of Saul.

Geoffry Michel, of Great Britain, was a manucaptor in 1302. Michelia is the name of a genus of plants.

There are twenty-four British crests for the name Mitchell, twenty-six places of that name besides Mount Mitchell in North Carolina, which is 6,710 feet high, and the highest mountain east of the Rocky Mountains. There are sixty works containing Mitchell genealogy, twenty persons of the name have served in the United States Congress, and there were fifty-seven Mitchell families in Connecticut in 1790.

JOHN MITCHELL, THE BOTANIST

(Contributed)

John Mitchell, F. R. S., famous botanist and physician, came from England to Virginia about the year 1700. He died in 1772. His residence was chiefly at Urbana, a small town on the Rappahannock, about seventy-three miles from Richmond. He appears to have been a man of observation, acuteness, and enterprise, as well as learning.

He wrote, in 1743, an essay on the causes of the different colors of people in different climates, which was published in the philosophical transactions, vol. 43. He attributed the difference of the human complexion to the same causes, which have been assigned by Dr. Smith, to the influence of climate and modes of life; and he thinks that the whites have degenerated more from the original complexion in Noah and his family than the Indians, or even negroes. The color of the descendants of Ham he considers a blessing rather than a curse, as without it they could not well inhabit Africa.

He published also an essay on the preparations and uses of the various kinds of potash; a letter concerning the force of electrical cohesion; and a useful work on the general principles of botany, containing descriptions of a number of new genera of plants. It is believed, that he was also the author of the map of North America, published in 1755; which was accompanied by a large pamphlet, entitled, the Contest in America, and followed by another, entitled the Present State of Great Britain and North America, 1767. His manuscripts on the yellow fever, as it appeared in Virginia in 1742, fell into the hands of Dr. Franklin, by whom they were communicated to Dr. Rush, of Philadelphia.

The Mitchell Family
MAGAZINE

JANUARY, 1917

NOTES ON THE MITCHELLS IN SOUTH CAROLINA PREVIOUS TO 1750

(Contributed)

According to a copy made in 1725 of the original "Grand Model" of Charles Town, as laid out previous to 1680, lot No. 9 fronting on the Cooper River was "said to have been granted to John Mitchell" from which it may be inferred that the latter had by that date sold or abandoned the property. (South Carolina Hist. Magaz., Vol. IX, p. 16). This was probably the same John Mitchell to whom the Governor and council granted "one lot at ye Oyster point" 19 April, 1679. (S. C. Warrants 1672-9, p. 198).

An Edward Mitchell was born in Charles Town in 1700. His son James lived in Roanoke County, Virginia, and left descendants. (Am. Ancestry, Vol. XI, p. 116).

A map printed by Harman Mall in 1715 shows that at least two Carolina plantations, situated respectively on the north and south outlets of the Edisto River, about five miles from the coast, were then occupied by families named Mitchell. Edward Crisp's map undated, but "engraved by John Harris in Bull-head Court, Newgate Street, London"—and "sold at the Carolina Coffee House in Birchin Lane" gives "Eph. Michel" as the owner of the plantation on the South Edisto and "Ja. Michel" as the owner of the one on the North Edisto.

Most of the South Carolina Mitchells previous to 1750 were found in Colleton and Granville Counties in the southern section of the Colony and were more or less closely related. Many of them belonged to a family of Scotch Presbyterians who had settled in St. Bartholomew's Parish about the beginning of the Eighteenth Century. The founder of this family was apparently one George Mitchell, who died in 1721. Another George Mitchell, usually designated as "Senior" and possibly a son of the George Mitchell just mentioned, was a planter of considerable means living in St. Bartholomew's parish. He died in 1736 leaving his widow Hannah and five children.

(1) John; (2) Joseph; (3) Elizabeth; (4) Rachel; (5) Tabitha. Of these, John and Joseph were planters and connected as deacons and otherwise with the management of the Scotch Presbyterian Churches at Pon Pon and Will Town, which from 1728 onwards were under the authority of the Edinburg Presbytery.

In 1731 a William Mitchell was appointed a juryman for the Parish of St. Helena, and Daniel Mitchell and Ephriam Mitchell jurymen for St. Paul's Parish. In the same year Ephriam Mitchell (variously spelled "Michel," "Michael" and "Mickell") secured a grant of 300 acres of land in St. Helena's Parish. (Vol. 1 of Grants, p. 276, Secretary of State's Office.) He died in 1743, leaving his widow Elizabeth, daughter of William Hazard, and four children: (1) John; (2) Joseph; (3) Benjamin; (4) Elizabeth. In his will he mentioned 100 pounds left by his father to the Baptist Church at Edisto.

In 1734 George Mitchell joined the St. Andrew Society in Charlestown, and the same year James Mitchell of Edisto Island and his wife Martha (daughter of John Sams) obtained a hundred acres of land on Edisto Island adjoining the plantation of Paul Grimball.

In the South Carolina Gazette for 29 April, 1732, is noted the arrival from Barbadoes of the Ship Concord under command of Charles Mitchell.

In 1735 Moses Mitchell bought land in the town of Dorchester, St. George's Parish. Two years later he purchased a pew in St. Philip's Church, and secured a large grant of land from the Crown, situated in Berkley County.

In 1736, Lewis Mitchell, a native of Switzerland, secured grants of land in Purrysburg Township, Granville County.(Vol. 9, pp. 371-4 of Grants in office of Secretary of State). This gentleman seems to have been the same man described in a letter written by John Barnwell in 1712 in the following terms:

"I must not forget one Mr. Mitchell, a Swiss brave gentleman who for true valor and presence of mind in ye midst of action accompanied with a gentle obliging carriage and ingenious to a great degree rendered him ye most acceptable companion in this my last Ramble. This good tempered gentleman is an agent here of the Canton of Bern, he had a mind to see South Carolina. I whetted his inclination as much as I could by showing the difference between the two governments" (Vol. 6 Virginia Magaz. of Hist., p. 48).

The first wife of Dr. Thomas Waring who died in 1744 was a Miss Mitchell ("Our Forefathers, Their Homes and Churches, p. 36).

In 1737 William Mitchell secured the grant of some land in Orangeburg Township. and the same year Moses Mitchell obtained a grant in the adjoining town of Amelia.

In the South Carolina Gazette of 26 March, 1737 is noted the arrival of the "Brigt. Hopewell, Wm. Mitchell from Barbadoes, and in the same issue is a note reading "Lately arrived from Ireland and Barbadoes a small parcel of Irish Linen Cloth, Rum and Sugar, which are to be sold by Wm. Mitchell at his store on the Bay, at Mr. Henry Williams at the Monmouthshire Tavern, at a reasonable price for ready Money."

In 1738 John Mitchell (probably the son of George Mitchell "Senior") obtained grants of land in Colleton County, and in 1741, three grants in Granville County.

George Mitchell ("Junior") was a surgeon and probably the nephew of George Mitchell, "Senior," near whom he lived. He died in 1740 without wife or children. It appears from his will that he was the son of Hugh Mitchell and Janet, his wife, of Dalzam Parish, County of Ayr, Scotland. His brothers were Hugh Mitchell of Edinburgh, and the Rev. Andrew Mitchell, a Presbyterian minister of the County of Ayr. He had also two sisters, Mrs. Jane Campbell and Mrs. Agnes Logan, both of Scotland.

John Mitchell of Christ Church Parish died in 1741. His will mentions no relatives but only a friend, Joseph Severance, who is named sole executor.

In 1743 Charles Mitchell was married to Martha Tomlinson in St. Philip's Church.

Daniel Mitchell of St. John's Parish, Colleton, died in 1746, leaving a wife, Catherine, and a son, Daniel, also a nephew John Beckett.

In 1746 Joseph Mitchell of Colleton County, evidently the son of George Mitchell, Sr., died. His will mentions his wife Martha, son William and brother John.

In 1749 Robert Mitchell joined the St. Andrew Society in Charles Town.

Thomas Mitchell was a well known planter of George Town in the middle of the eighteenth century.

Mitchell's History of Bridgewater says: "There was a John Mitchell in Marshfield in 1825, aged eighty-five years, whose father, John Mitchell, came from Old York, Me. His grandfather was killed by the Indians. His father told him he was related to the Mitchells of Bridgewater."

CONNECTICUT MITCHELLS

The Mitchells of Connecticut claim kin with Rebecca Motte, of Revolutionary fame, with Governor Saltonstall, and Governor Dudley, of Massachusetts; also with the Gardiners, of Gardiner's Island.

Captain Donald Grant Mitchell, 1776, married Lucretia Woodbridge, a descendant of Governor Dudley, of Massachusetts, 1639. Donald Grant was the son of Stephen Mix Mitchell and his wife Hannah, daughter of Donald Grant, Inverness, Scotland. Stephen was a man of affairs; a Yale graduate, Chief Justice of Connecticut, member of the first Congress at Philadelphia, Senator and member of Congress. He was the son of James Mitchell' of Wethersfield, born in Glasgow in 1706. He married Rebecca, daughter of Rev. Stephen Mix, and Mary, daughter of Rev. Solomon Stoddard.

James and Stephen Mitchell are supposed to be of the same family as Stephen Mitchell, founder of the library at Glasgow.

Donald Mitchell, better known as "Ike Marvel," the charming essayist, was the grandson of Stephen, of Connecticut, who had six sons, all college graduates.

At least two of the Virginia family of Mitchells—Captain James and Captain Thomas Mitchell—were bold soldier boys. Both were at the battle of Point Pleasant, 10 October, 1774.

THE VIRGINIA MITCHELLS

The Mitchells were settled in Virginia by the middle of the eighteenth century, perhaps earlier. An entry in the diary of James Gordon, of Richmond, Va., mentions the Mitchells: "January 1, 1759—Dr. Robertson and his young wife came here according to the Dr.'s custom. Very agreeable company and good dinner. Mr. Dale Carter and Mr. Payne here. Miss Flood came in our chair to Mr. Camm's. John Mitchell and his wife came at night in the rain."

The whole neighborhood must have been a "merry-go-round."

Colonel Gordon was the most hospitable of hosts. One day he writes: "We had no company, which is surprising." This neglect was remedied a day afterward: "Mr. William Churchill, his wife and five children came, and Mrs. Carter and her son and Miss Judith Bassett." Colonel Gordon married (the youngest daughter of Colonel Edwin Conway,) Milicent, whose tapering fingers would not retain the wedding ring—sad omen, for Milicent died at the age of 19, six years after her marriage, leaving two little daughters.

AN EARLY LAND RECORD

One of the oldest original land records now extant in America with the date 1652, shows the signature of Experience Mitchell. The record is entitled: "Autograph Signatures of Some of the Distinguished Founders of America, who were interested in the establishment of the American land ownership system as incorporated in the ancient Pilgrim proprietary of Towams."
